ELIS STRONG AT FINISH

To a man on the side line the most ore in the latest lot of football conflicts was the Navy's against Georgetown. Georgetown has a pretty good team. The Washington players vere held in great respect by the Navy and were expected to give them their hardest fight except Princeton and th Yet the Navy beat Georgetown, 21 to 6.

This score affords a striking case of contradictory results. Early in the scason North Carolina State went to Annapolis and capsized the Midshipmen. 14 to 7. Then the Carolinans tackled Georgetown, and the latter swatted them, 27 to 6. Those results didn't give the Navy much chance, yet such "dope" as comparative scores give was utterly

The answer is that the Navy has impreved, and a great deal. Folwell evidently is getting results. The material and the methods were new to him when

The statement is made that in the Yale-Princeton game last year Mike had the better of it in the centre play argument with his brother Tim. Did he now? Walter Camp named Wenver of Centre centre on his first All-America team last year, Balley of West Virginia second and Callahan, Yale, third. Out of thirteen other All-America teams Tim Callahan's name appears on six and Mike's on none. Out of sixteen All-Eastern teams Tim's name appears for centre on seven and Mike's on none. Among those who picked Tim Callahan was Bill Edwards of Princeton.

A distinct feature of Yale's campaisn this fall has been its strong finishes. Ell has had a habit of coming through with a powerful punch near the close. This was done in the Boston College same and gave the Blue a second touchdown. Fourteen of the twenty-four points against West Virginia were made in the last half. A touchdown was made in the last few minutes against the last few minutes against college should enter the battle with the Navy far botter prepared than they were last November.

Osmparative Scores Show How Elis' Rivals Fell Short in Their Features of Vaunted Strength.

Rather an interesting week at foot oall this, with the Yale-Princeton tuss against the Brown team, which threw scare into Yale's outfit, while Pennsylvania will get a further opportunity to redeem itself against the Dartmouth combination which defeated Cornell here

Cornell will get a breathing spell against Columbin, while Pittsburg will tackle Washington and Jefferson. The Georgetown-Georgia Tech game down in Atlanta, the Penn State-Lehigh tussie. the Oregon-Washington game on Pacific coast and the Illinois-Wisc watched with more than passing interest.

Yale men realize that when their eleven meets Princeton it will be confronted by a team which has not been beaten, which not even Harvard could beat. But Yale holds that out of the Harvard-Princeton game came quite a number of developments which give the Elis encouragement. They point to the fact that the Harvard backs were not as fast as they had been reported to be and that the Princeton line was not as strong as it had appeared to be. And Yale promises to throw a fighting, powerful first defence against the Tigers. Yale

The insistent and persistent demand DARTMOUTH STARTS that Harvard's football players wear numbers has been taken up by the Har-vard Crimson and apparently has brought the coaches at Cambridge to a Knox holds that Harvard's refusal to wear numbers is a protection for the highly developed Harvard strategy and highly developed Harvard strategy and attack—a sort of patent. So far, well and good. Knox is entitled to his opin-ion. But he sees fit to attack the news-papers, as follows: "The cry which has reached you

The cry which has reached you comes largely from the newspapermen. This is purely a selfish cry, resulting from the fact that the vast majority of newspapers call upon writers who are only partly qualified to handle the subject. They are men whose normal field is baseball, boxing, golf or some other mailted subject.

"The newspapers seem unwilling to bear the expense of securing expert writers and sending them to various premiliminary games, which will qualify them to write an accurate account of the proceedings in a big game. I see no day, and Smith we have the proceedings in a big game. I see no day, and Smith we have the security of the proceedings in a big game. I see no reason why any one should cater to the parsimonious or unscientific methods of the newspapers, regardless of how loud they how!. Some of the stronger exponents of the suggestion are teams who are urging it for distinctly selfish reasons. What heed, in turn, should be given them?"

HARVARD VARSITY Haven't seen any better this year, but in two visits to Cambridge the writer hasn't seen anything All-America about Horween. It he's All-America then Garrity's All-Universe. Woods is nearer All-America than Horween. However. All-America selections at this time are Green Will Try to Develop Open Formations.

HANOVER, N. H., Nov. 8.—Departing om his usual Monday custom, Spears ont the Dartmouth squad through a long signal drill to-day, laying special emphasis on new plays to be used against Penn in Philadelphia on Saturday. All the players reported with the exception of Capt. Robertson and Shelburne. The condition of the Green leader is as yet undetermined since another X-ray examination revealed nothing further than an injury on his shoulder. Shelburne, the liusky fullback, had a well deserved rest after his great efforts against Cornell. Merritt was bothered with a bad ankle, but the other players showed no effects from the battle with the Ubacan.

Bower, who replaced Robertson arday, was sent in at left halfack to-day, and Smith was used as fullback. Holbrook was in his regular borth at right halfback. On the second team Grundman and Burke took the halfback positions, with Malmaulet at quarterback. It is expected that Spears will use all of these substitute backfield men against the Red and Blue team.

Dartmouth's line, which hitherto had been the weak point in the team, stood up well against Cornell. For this reason

He also has announced that he is strong for the abolition of lobbles at the Capitol. So we may look for great support for sport in general from our new State Executive. Let us hope that the men who make a business of sport will do their part.

Belmont Spring Country Club, Waverly, Mass., is rapidly pushing the work on the reconstruction of its course. If would seem that there is no great scarcity of labor in the Boston district, since 100 workmen are said to be making the changes there. Belmont is the course over which the women's national cham-pionship of 1916 was decided and one pionship of 1916 was decided and of the poorest ever selected for a national title event. It would appear to be the intention of the Belmont officials to reconstruct the entire course. Donald Ross has been intrusted with the work.

A new nine hole golf course is being laid out on a plateau between Grimsby and Beamsville, a beauty spot in On-tarlo, Canada, on which for fifty years deer have roamed. A modest club house built on an English model will be erected

Through the generosity of H. H. Hilton the Hanover Country Club is to construct nine new holes. This does not refer to Harold H. Hilton, the British player who came here in 1911 and won the amateur championship of the United States at Apawamis, but to Henry H. Hilton, an enthusiast who is given much credit for the present flourishing condition of golf in his own particular section of New England.

Their work oudoors completed for the season or nearly so at least, professionals who do not go South over winter are beginning to turn their attention to the indoor school. Louis Tellier, the Brae Burn midget, is said to be looking for a suitable location in Boston this year.

Good Catches of Cod Every Day.

Talking about the cod fishing off Long Reach yesterday, Capt. Hen Wright of Gueenswater, L. L., said that they were cetting fair catches on every trip now. They are the school cod that come in on the first run cach year and range from four to eight pounds apiece. As a matter of fact they are the size cod that please the fishermen best, for a man can comtertably carry home three or four of them. On last Thursday we had 48 cod on the Commodore, no very large ones, but a nice run of fish. On Friday we had a private party of eight mon and they bagged 55 cod. John Lawson, the mate, caught 22 cod and, of course, was high hook. "I was lucky onough to hag ten myself," said the captain. On Saturday our catch was 60 cod.

Dermouth THE Debutante Highball sounds wicked, but it would hardly hort a child. Here is how they make it: 2 parts Mouquin's Vermouth 3 parts seltzer. Other formulae on request. Or use your own judgment for Mouquin's Vermouth has all the old time blending qualities.

It's good for what cles you-His Excellency, Mou-quin's Ginger Ale with "that Frenchy taste."
